DESIGNING OUR CONTEXT

“What is design and how is it related to our space”

The “Designing Our Context” forum, a first time initiative, organized and programmed by the graduating students of the University of the West Indies St Augustine Campus, held at the Department of Creative and Festival Arts compound (auditorium) on Tuesday the 11th of May 2010, at 10am to 12pm intends to address the ideas of designed space and its importance within a Caribbean perspective.

Sustainability in design is growing as global economies are developing. As a result, this forum was formed to impart a greater awareness for design consciousness and design thinking with a public focus and to also discuss pertinent issues involved in designing within a global spatial context.

The Final year projects of the students will include furniture designs, costume design, book illustrations, surface designs, and much more. Through featured presentations students will initiate discussions on the designs they have created as it relate to the local culture and environmental space.

This forum will also afford students the opportunity to establish connections with professionals and students alike within the design sphere. In addition to this auspicious occasion, the Trinidad and Tobago Design Network will also be launching their association, the commencement of an entire new era in design evolution within our society.

The future of design in Trinidad and Tobago lies in competent hands, impelling “Designing Our Context” to collaborate with individuals who aspire to achieve one common goal. This goal involves the ability to design and formulate solutions to pressing issues in our developing society.
